Shimkus starts taking resumes

EDWARDSVILLE—Collinsville Township trustee John Shimkus defeated Madison County Treasurer Michael "Mick" Henkhaus by nearly 7,000 votes Tuesday, including a surprising victory by Shimkus, the incumbent's home district.

Final unofficial results showed Shimkus, 32, taking 54.8 percent of the vote. Shimkus received 38,361 votes to 31,612 for Henkhaus, who has held the office for 12 years.

Voters in Henkhaus' home area, Precinct 18 in Bethalto, sided toward Shimkus by about 60 votes, unofficial results showed.

Shimkus immediately called for resumes to fill the four deputy treasurer positions. Although Shimkus said he had no immediate plans to replace the existing deputies, he said he wanted to "see what's out there and get the best qualified people in my office."

Shimkus takes office Dec. 1.

Henkhaus said he blames negative campaigning for his failed bid for reelection to the county treasurer's office.

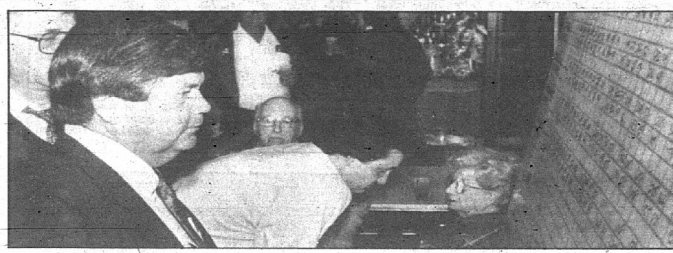

When his loss became apparent about 9 p.m. Tuesday, Henkhaus said: "I still feel that I've run one of the best treasurers' offices in the state. Obviously, that didn't make a difference to the voters. I tried to run a positive campaign all the time. I told everybody I'd never run a 'dirty' campaign. I'll never do it in my life."

When asked if he felt Shimkus had run a "dirty" campaign, Henkhaus responded, "Yes, I do. I think his campaign was negative from the word go, and obviously people must think negative campaigns are the thing (that works). I don't, and I hope that I never have to resort to it."

"I think a lot of articles in the papers concerning my family were not very fair, and I think that Mr. Shimkus brought them up and the press went right along with him."

On Wednesday, Henkhaus vowed his political

REVIEWING THE VOTE TALLY late Tuesday evening at the Wood River Moose Lodge, Madison County Treasurer Michael "Mick" Henkhaus notes the trend that saw him lose out to John Shimkus, first Republican countywide winner since 1980.

Edgar loses county, wins state

EDWARDSVILLE — In a close race, Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar, defeated Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan in the governor's race Tuesday.

With 98 percent of the state's precinct's reporting, Edgar was ahead 1,629,194 to 1,531,393.

In Madison County, Hartigan received 57 percent of the vote, leading 40,561 to 29,260.

Democratic candidates all received strong majorities in Madison County.

Edgar and running mate Bob Kustra will succeed Gov. James Thompson and Lt. Gov. George Ryan. The losing Democratic team consisted of Hartigan and James Burns.

The Republican Party also won the race for secretary of state; George Ryan beat State Treasurer Jerry Cosentino.

Democrats captured three major state races. Comptroller Roland W. Burris defeated Jim Ryan for attorney general; Sen. Dawn Clark Netsch beat Sue Suter, former director of the Illinois Department of Public Aid, for comptroller; and political activist Patrick Quinn defeated Greg Baese, former secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation, for treasurer.

In the governor's race, Hartigan led throughout Tuesday evening but Edgar pulled ahead after midnight and Hartigan conceded at 1:30 a.m.

Voters turn down airport authority

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A key supporter of the failed Lakeside Airport Authority referendum in Tuesday's election is unsure if the referendum will be attempted again.

Although there was almost no organized opposition, 52 percent of the voters were against creating the authority.

Voters in Granite City, Collinsville, Pontoon Beach and Nameoki Township defeated the referendum 8,156 to 7,874 on Tuesday.

The measure would have created an airport authority, with the power to levy taxes and issue bonds. The authority would have expanded and operated the Lakeside Airport located on Illinois 111 near State Aid 35. A simple majority was required for passage.

"I think the opposition just came from the tax angle," said Morris B. Chapman, a Granite City attorney and private pilot who spearheaded the effort to get the issue on the ballot. "People have become very tax-conscious and some vote against any tax as a Pavlovian reaction."

"It can still be done and we'll think about resubmitting (the referendum). Maybe it will come out differently. I don't know."

Under state law, the maximum tax rate the authority could have utilized would have been .000075 of assessed valuation, about $1.75 in taxes for a $70,000 home.

Chapman said the campaign for the airport authority was strictly a "grass-roots deal" with a limited budget and no political organization.

The issue was very close except in Nameoki Township, where 60 percent of the voters voted against the measure.

The 517-vote margin there represents about 70 percent of the overall margin.

The only reported organized effort to defeat the airport was in Nameoki Precinct 7, which includes the airport and neighboring Arlington Heights subdivision. There, opponents handed out liter-

Simon, Costello glide to easy victories

BELLEVILLE — U.S. Sen. Paul Simon and U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, Democrats, easily defeated Republican challengers in Tuesday's election.

Simon, of Makanda, formerly of Madison County, defeated U.S. Rep. Lynn Martin of the Rockford area, by about 65-35 percent.

Costello, of Belleville, seeking his second full term in office, beat a frequent foe, Robert Gaffner of Greenville, by about 68-31 percent.

With 98 percent of the state's precincts reporting, the unofficial results showed Simon ahead 2,071,873 to Martin's 1,118,592.

In the Costello-Gaffner race, Costello was winning 87,292 to 40,131, not counting East St. Louis, which is heavily QUAD CITIES — Madison County Democratic Chairman John Belloff was pleased with local support Tuesday night.

Belloff, the mayor of Madison, said the party did well in the Quad City area. The Democratic candidates carried all races overall and lost at the precinct level in only 14 cases.

Democrat Neil Hartigan, who lost the race for governor to Republican Jim Edgar, carried all but two predicts in the Quad Cities. He led at all seven Chouteau precincts, all 12 Nameoki precincts, all 11 Venice Township precincts and 34 of the 36 Granite City precincts.

Ironically, one of the precincts Hartigan failed to carry was Granite City Democratic Chairman and Hartigan Campaign Chairman Frank Laub's Granite City Precinct 21. Edgar got 140 votes to Hartigan's 131. Edgar also carried Granite City Precinct 35, 200 to 188.

Aquacenter plans mobile aquarium

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — World renowned marine diver and ecologist Dee Seart helped unveil a model for the proposed Mid-America Aquacenter Wednesday morning.

Also presented during a press conference at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant in Pontoon Beach, were plans for a mobile aquarium, built into a 45-foot trailer.

Leonard Sonnenschein, president of Mid-America Aquacenter, is touting the mobile-aquarium as "the first tangible evidence of the program beyond the education stage."

The mobile unit will be only the second of its kind. A similar facility is currently being used by the Monterey Bay Public Aquarium in California.

Aquacenter officials plan to take the aquarium to schools throughout the metropolitan area, to give children a first-hand learning experience.

The trailer, which was donated by an anonymous benefactor and was on display Wednesday, is designed as a complete educational experience.

When finished, the mobile aquarium will contain

Local units in big parade Saturday for Veterans Day

Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307, Madison VFW Post 7451, Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 422 of Madison and the Illinois POW/MIA Vigil Team will be among the groups participating in a Veterans Day parade in downtown St. Louis on Saturday, Nov. 10.

It will be St. Louis' biggest parade for that holiday yet.

Festivities will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the mayor's breakfast and military awards presentation — by invitation only — followed by a 10 a.m. ecumenical church service at Christ Church Cathedral, 1210 Locust St.

At 10:30 a.m., a musical salute to veterans at Kiener Plaza will feature the Moohah Temple Drum and Bugle Corps, Sons-of-Mitch Gang and Futures of America.

At 11:30 a.m., a musical salute will be performed at the reviewing stand, in front of Soldiers Memorial, 1315 Chestnut St. Military bands and musical groups will perform and honor guards and drill teams will demonstrate, followed by a wreath-laying ceremony and a 21-gun salute.

The parade itself begins at noon on Olive Street at 15th Street. It will travel east on Olive, south on 15th, east on Chestnut Street, north on Tucker Boulevard, east on Olive, south on Broadway and west on Market Street to 20th Street, where it will disband.

Brig. Gen. Jan H. Paynton is chairman of this year's event.

"This is our eighth annual parade, and every year it seems to get a little larger," Paynton said. "This year we have about 130 units, which is even bigger than last year. We believe it to be the largest event of its kind in the country."

Some of the units include the World War II Re-enactment Society, Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, Christian Clown Club, St. Louis Blind Veterans Association and the Model T Ford Club of Greater St. Louis.

In addition, there will be numerous high school and military bands, ROTC units, active, retired and reserve military personnel and American Legion and Veterans of Foreign War posts and their auxiliaries. There also will be several stationary military displays along the parade route.

"Since it is the Marine Corps' 215th birthday this year, we are honoring them with a special salute," Paynton said.

As part of that salute, Maj. Gen. Matthew T. Cooper, commanding general of the 4th Marine Division of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, will be honored as grand parade marshal.

The parade will disperse at approximately 2 p.m., Paynton said.

"There's a lot to see and do, and this is a real opportunity for people to show their support for their veterans and military personnel in general," Paynton said.

Patrolmen graduate from academy

Granite City probationary patrolmen Kenneth Rozell and Jeffrey Hoese completed the 10-week police academy at Belleville Area College Nov. 2.

Both officers received achievement awards in their training. Rozell received the Shooting trophy and Distinguished Expert score of the 34 participants. Hoese received the Physical Fitness trophy and Best Notebook.

Both officers graduated with a percentile over 91 percent.

Officers Rozell and Hoese will return to the department and be further trained by a field training officer, and will eventually be assigned to their respective shifts.

Chief Don Knight said, "These officers have upheld the tradition of Granite City police officers excelling in the academy, and we are proud of them."

Tire-burning test program delayed

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

SAUGER — Mechanical malfunctions in a boiler's emission system at Monsanto's W.G. Krummrich Plant have delayed full-scale testing of scrap tire burning until next month.

Max McCombs, general superintendent for environmental affairs at Krummrich, said the testing is now scheduled for Dec. 18-19.

As part of a plan to help eliminate annually as many as one million scrap tires stockpiled throughout the state, the company had planned to begin the test burning two weeks ago.

When problems with the company's coal-fired boiler arose, those plans were postponed, McCombs said.

Last month, the company received a $30,000 grant from the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources Office of Solid Waste and Renewable Resources for test burns.

The cost for the project will be $38,203. Monsanto will provide the additional $8,203.

The company has received a permit from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to conduct the test burns.

The plan calls for 2-inch pieces of scrap tires to be mixed with coal and burned in the company's coal-fired boiler. The tires would represent 10 percent of that mix.

McCombs said plant employees are making the needed repairs and are optimistic about the program despite the temporary setback.

From an operational standpoint, nothing has happened so far that indicates we would have any problems with it," McCombs said. Results from preliminary tests conducted early last month were encouraging.

McCombs said the next step in the process will follow the test burns next month.

"The main thing we have to do is the air sampling," McCombs said. "We will share the results with the EPA and let them make a judgment."

Last year, St. Clair County had 332,720 scrap tires stockpiled.

Police

Coin collection stolen

Julian B. Wallace reported to Granite City police that while he was away from his business office/residence in the 2100 block of Delmar Avenue between 12:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Nov. 4, someone entered.

The intruder took $300 to $400 in American coins, including buffalo nickels and victory dimes. Also missing was a plastic King Kong coin bank.

Wallace reported that someone entered the building the previous week and took $500 in rent receipts.

Vandal breaks window

William Woolsey of the 2100 block of Monroe Street reported that two large rocks were thrown through a window, breaking it, at a residence in the 2200 block of Lee Avenue while he was there on Nov. 4.

Arrest on DUI warrant

Clifford J. Cook, 31, of 905 Kirkpatrick Homes was arrested at 11:33 p.m. Nov. 1 on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a DUI charge. He was held in the Granite City Jail pending $202 bail.

Vehicle looted of radio

Marsha K. Lindsay of the 2600 block of Iowa Street reported that before 6:36 a.m. Nov. 2 a citizen band radio, valued at $50, was taken from her parked auto.

Briefcase, camera gone

Keith D. Fears of the 2800 block of Wayne Avenue reported Nov. 1 that on Oct. 1 or 2, a briefcase containing a 35 mm camera, a calculator, a ratchet screwdriver and an identification badge was taken from his auto, which was parked in front of his residence. The value of the items taken was estimated at $575.

Vandal damages door

Norman W. Holsinger of Collinsville Rural Route 3 reported to Granite City police that between Oct. 26 and Oct. 31 a vandal put a hole in a garage door at the rear of 312 Nameoki Road, formerly the CMC stereo store. The damage was estimated at $500.

Parked cars ransacked

Deanna Burch and Peggy Burch, both of the 2500 block of Iowa Street, reported their automobiles were burglarized while parked between 11 p.m. Nov. 1 and 7:18 a.m. Nov. 2. No items appeared to be missing, but a glove box door was broken.

Scouting For Food starts Saturday; resumes Nov. 17

More than 1,500 Boy Scouts will be mobilizing on two weekends in November to help feed the hungry in the greater Cahokia Mound Council area.

Organized by the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, the Scouting For Food Good Turn will involve Scouts and volunteer leaders from Madison and Bond counties collecting non-perishable food.

The local appeal is part of a National Good Turn being conducted by the Boy Scouts of America, seeking to ease the food problem for the more than 20 million Americans who go hungry at some time each month. Scouts will be supplying food pantries within the Council with the food collected from this project.

The Scouts will distribute bags to individual homes in neighborhoods throughout the Council area on Saturday, Nov. 10. The following Saturday, Nov. 17, they will return to pick up bags filled with food.

The bags will then be transported to the food pantries. Community residents are being urged to help with the project by watching for and filling the Scouting For Food bag placed outside their door.

Craft fair to benefit DARE

The DARE Committee of Granite City School District 9 will sponsor a craft fair on Saturday, Nov. 10, at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave.

The doors will be open to the public at 9 a.m. and will close at 4 p.m. Admission is free. Profits from this event will help finance the current DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program in the Granite City public and parochial schools.

Shoppers will be able to select unique handmade gifts from 54 different booths. Local and out-of-state craftsmen will have their creations for sale. All items are handcrafted and geared to either Christmas decorations or gifts for every occasion.

Some of the handmade crafts displayed for sale will be: personalized sweatshirts, lace collars, jewelry, dolls, doll furniture, quilts, quilt stands, crocheted items, primitive painted woodcrafts, floral arrangements, stuffed weaving, Barbie outfits, stuffed animals and many tote-painted items.

County has tough choices

Bill Haine, Bob Churchich and John Rekowski have all presented a common problem to the Madison County Board recently, and some tough decisions are necessary.

From all three has come a chorus of "We need money." Respectively the state's attorney, sheriff and public defender, all three have a problem that county board members had better take seriously in the days ahead. All three deal with a law-and-order system that has been subjected to heavy pressure in recent years. The courts are jammed with cases. The jail is jammed with prisoners, and defendants who cannot afford their own legal help have jammed the public defender's office.

Madison County found the money to launch a multi-million dollar administration building next to the courthouse in Edwardsville. We're not downplaying the significance or the need for such an effort. But this project can't be done at the expense of existing departments or their needs.

Law enforcement needs will not decrease in coming months. The worsening economy will undoubtedly mean an increase in crime.

Effective prosecution of criminals does not hinge on talent of a state's attorney as much as it does money to effectively administer an office. Housing of prisoners depends just as much on an adequate jail budget as it does on the courts to process the cases and clear the jail. And a public defender with no money is little better off than the clients the courts have placed in his charge.

County board members should listen to those officials and find the money, before the burgeoning problem becomes too big to correct.

Voters chose able officials

It was a good election Tuesday. There was a heavy turnout, and voters chose highly capable individuals at the state, district and county levels, which, after all, was the purpose of the balloting. Of course, no series of results could please everyone.

Illinois has been left with a set of officials primed to do a fine job during the next four years, even though all six offices will have new occupants. Jim Edgar will be governor, Bob Kustra lieutenant governor and George H. Ryan secretary of state, gladdening the hearts of Republicans. Democrats fared well with the victories of Roland W. Burris for attorney general, Patrick Quinn state treasurer and Dawn Clark Lutsch, state comptroller.

Lawmakers representing this area all ran strongly, despite the wrong-minded "throw the incumbents out" philosophy in other parts of the nation. U.S. Sen. Paul Simon won a second six-year term by nearly 2-1 and U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello built up almost the same margin in capturing a second two-year term. State Sen. Sam Gadelabene won with nearly 70 percent of the votes cast and State Rep. Sam Wolf garnered more than 21,000 votes in running without opposition. All four are Democrats.

In gaining an upset victory over the Madison County treasurer, Republican John Shimkus showed the county hard work in a campaign. He crisscrossed the county, knocking on doors, much like Paul Simon did when the latter began his legislative career nearly four decades ago. Shimkus obviously impressed many of those he met because he won with relative ease, 55 to 45 percent.

Although Treasurer Mick Henkhaus had been providing good service in recent years, the Shimkus victory can be applauded from three standpoints. He seems capable of serving well; he showed that taking one's campaign to the people can still succeed; and he took a positive step toward restoring two-party government in our county. Over the long run, genuine rivalry with a prospect of winning encourages both parties to nominate the best possible candidates.

There will be continued service by three other Madison County officials and by five Madison County Board members from this community, plus two appellate judges and three circuit judges, all unopposed on Tuesday.

Expansion of the Granite City Public Library District in Chouteau Township gained approval, as did a statewide proposal to speed the delinquent real estate sale process.

Establishment of a proposed Lakeside Airport Authority attracted much support, but lost. It remains a good idea, and perhaps can be revived in some form at a future election.

Otto's quake prediction: believe it or not

Otto may be a certifiable nut. But I've seen a few certifiable nuts in my time, and I don't think he's one of them.

Still, the story he's got to tell is so fantastic that only the most kind-hearted person is going to believe it. I'm not exactly kind-hearted, but I listened.

Otto is a 59-year-old Granite City resident, and he doesn't want his last name used. You'll see why. All he wants is his story told.

He is not a churchgoer, but he is a firm believer in the Bible as the ultimate revelation of man's past and future. A believer to such a point that he can quote chapter and verse of many Biblical passages.

It is from that faith — and a strange set of personal circumstances — that Otto has come up with an ominous prediction for Nov. 13, 1990. On that day, he says, and the more publicized Dec. 3, the Midwest will realize the earthquake it has long awaited. It will be far more devastating than any of us realize. And Otto has proof.

Or at least proof that only he could come up with.

Otto's strange-but-true story began with a dream he had in 1976. In the dream he envisioned a second-hand store with a broken window. Above the doorway were two numbers, 524 and 724. For 18 months, Otto didn't attach a lot of significance to the dream until a chance drive down

Dennis Grubaugh

State Street in Granite City. There, Otto saw the exact same building of his dream, right down to the broken window.

More significant, perhaps, is the fact that Otto, a Hungarian emigrant who had spent most of his life elsewhere, had never set foot in downtown Granite City. It was deja vu, and for Otto it was overwhelming. "He was affected so much, he bought the building and turned it into a short-lived second-hand shop. Though that store quickly closed, it had a lasting impact."

There were a couple of differences between dream and real life. In his dream, the store was abandoned; in real life it was occupied. Also, in real life there were no numbers 524 and 724 above the doorway. The address, in fact, wasn't close. Still, the whole episode affected Otto so much that he began to believe there was some purpose to his having had the dream.

Otto is not a believer in numerology, which is the study of numbers and their relationship to life. But he began to think that some of the basic principles could apply to his dream. He looked at 524 and 724, trying to figure them out. He added them, subtracted them, attacked them. While he was convinced that they meant something, he couldn't figure it out.

Then it dawned on him that perhaps they had something to do with his beloved Bible.

Otto began working on a complicated formula, comparing the numbers to Bible verses. What he arrived at amazed even me.

I could never convey the formula in quite the same way that Otto presented it to me. But a small bit of it follows: Take 5, 2 and 4 and add them. You get 11. Take 7-2-4 and you get 13.

Because the numbers of Revelations is the only one dealing specifically with future events, Otto looked up Chapter 11, Verse 13. In the King James version, it reads: "And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men 7,000; and the remnant were afflicted, and gave glory unto the God of heaven."

Otto interprets that as 10 percent of the effected area being destroyed by an earthquake and 7,000 people left dead.

And it will happen, he is sure, on Nov. 13, 11:13-30.

Switching the numbers doesn't work. Neither does substituting months in place of days.

Believe me, I'm not fool enough to believe that two simple numbers could be used to convey such an apocalyptic message. But Otto has extended them several ways and found interesting patterns developing.

For instance, he believes a second, stronger earthquake will hit the New Madrid fault on Dec. 31. (Ben Browning has voiced similar predictions.) Otto also believes a great war will break out on Dec. 7, 1990. In the Middle East perhaps? (Wasn't there another great war started on Dec. 7?)

No matter how skeptical I was in my discussion with Otto, the odd thing was I couldn't find a single hole in any of the numerical patterns he had come up with. Nor did I particularly want to debate Bible verses.

Otto says he began pondering the numbers on May 24 of this year, but it took him until July 24 to come up with a pattern that made sense. That's 5-24-90 and 7-24-90, yet another of many coincidences.

Otto figures that a quake will hit somewhere in the Midwest at 15 minutes after noon next Tuesday. I would quickly doubt his sincerity were it not for the fact that he isn't seeking personal glorification. He only wants people to know they'd better be prepared. In any circumstances, that's pretty good advice.

I'm not sure what I think, but I pass it along. Believe it or not, Dennis Grubaugh is managing editor of the Press-Record.

Letters

School helps those in need

The following letter was addressed to Superintendent Gilbert Walmsley, who passed it along to the Press-Record.

To the editor:

On Wednesday morning, Sept. 26, I learned from a student in my special education class at Maryville School that she, with her mother and two siblings, had narrowly escaped a fire in their apartment on Cleveland Boulevard.

All of their possessions were destroyed. This same blaze took the lives of another tenant and his two-year-old son.

I routed a letter to the Maryville staff informing them of the tragedy and asking for their help. Within 15 minutes, I had $75 for the family.

By Friday, the Maryville staff had not only contributed $120, but each remaining day throughout the week bags of toiletries and household items were placed outside my classroom door for the family.

These donations came not only from the Maryville staff but from many generous parents who had learned about the tragedy through correspondence sent home by the kindergarten students from their teacher, Peggy Tucker.

Even our special education secretary, Joanne Conaway, made a trip to my classroom door to donate three huge bags filled with clothing.

Furthermore, the Maryville School nurse, Margaret Amisch, contacted the Granite City Junior Service and that organization arranged for new eyeglasses for my student. I received them Monday, half the cost of her glasses. By Friday morning, my student proudly came to class wearing her new glasses.

The compassion and love expressed by (Principal) Dennis Grubaugh by the many staff members who stopped by my classroom throughout the week to talk and comfort my student were heartwarming and, hopefully, lessened that little girl's trauma and sorrow.

This tremendous outpouring of concern and the generosity displayed by the Maryville staff and many of the parents came, however, as no surprise to me.

Last Christmas, my colleague, Mary Martinez, and I asked the staff to contribute to a fund for families that were facing a very bleak Christmas.

One family was in particularly desperate circumstances. An automobile accident had rendered the father incapable of working, and the family's power bill was due.

I believe everyone can remember how brutally cold it was the week before Christmas last year. Within hours of requesting donations, Mary Martinez and I had in our possession sufficient money to cover their power bill, plus enough to purchase presents for three other children in our classrooms.

Several parents learned of our collection and they, too, sent in contributions.

Educators have been in recent years the target of much negative press. All too frequently, the public is inundated with stories and statistics that appear to make us monumental failures who are remiss in our duties and insensitive to the needs of our students.

Seldom, if ever, would the story of the wonderful staff at Granite City be heard. But just for the record, I wanted you to hear it.

I knew it would make you proud to be their superior. I know I am proud to be associated with them.

Enrollment soars, BAC proud

To the editor:

Our registrar sent me a report that I would like to share with the residents of District 322.

Belleville Area College has registered a record number of students for its fall semester, which began on Aug. 25.

All three campuses — Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud — have experienced significant gains. Systemwide, enrollment is up 15.8 percent from the fall '89 semester.

In terms of percentage, the Red Bud Campus scored the biggest increase, up 63.3 percent from 433 students in fall '89 to 716 for the current semester. Belleville Campus enrollment was up 9.8 percent, from 8,458 to 9,298. Granite City enrollment rose 15.3 percent, from 2,425 to 2,796.

Over the course of the last academic year, more than 21,000 students — part time and full time — looked to Belleville Area College for their educational needs.

Enrollment was up by 500 students in our recently completed summer semester. Now, with this significant jump in fall enrollment, we are projecting that more than 23,000 individuals will turn to Belleville Area College for their educational needs sometime during this academic year.

That's all the more remarkable when you consider that Census Bureau figures released in August showed a modest decline in our district population. The Census Bureau has indicated that population figures in many areas may be adjusted upward, and I wouldn't be surprised to see at least a slight increase in our area when their revisions are complete.

But regardless of what those figures show, it's clear that our enrollment increases aren't an accidental byproduct of population trends.

JOSEPH J. CIPPLI, Ph.D.
Belleville Area College

The entire college family has been working hard to get our message out to the community, that we offer quality education that's convenient and affordable.

Although traditional-age students (recent high-school graduates) still account for the bulk of credit-hour enrollment, the average student age at Belleville has risen to 31 as increasing numbers of working adults return to school to pick up new job skills or change careers entirely.

The college has undertaken an aggressive campaign to make education readily accessible to them, providing day and evening classes at 21 learning centers throughout the district in addition to its three main campuses.

Extension center enrollment is up 35.7 percent, from 1,931 to 2,621 — a sure indication that district residents enjoy the convenience of classes close to home.

Childsitting is offered at the Belleville and Granite City campuses, and we hope to extend it to Red Bud soon. That service, according to several student-parents, paved the way for their return to college.

BAC has also turned to modern technology to make education convenient for even the busiest students. Area residents can tune in to public television or check out courses on videotape to earn college credit. Telecourse enrollment is up 11.7 percent, from 1,120 to 1,251.

All of us at Belleville Area College — trustees, faculty, staff and administrators — extend our sincere thanks to District 322 residents for the confidence they have shown in us.

We view these enrollment increases as clear indications of support for our efforts to provide excellence in education.

Drive will aid handicapped

To the editor:

Tri-City Council 1088 of the Knights of Columbus thanks all the good people who so generously donated to the Tootsie Roll drive for the mentally retarded and handicapped.

Also, thanks to the many volunteers who gave of their time and effort.

The money collected will be allocated between the organizations in the Tri-City area.

Plans were made to assist with Thanksgiving food baskets when the T.E.L. Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church of Granite City met recently at the home of Maureen Cox, a class member. After a brunch, a business session was conducted and various activities were discussed, including the church's Thanksgiving food basket project. All the current officers were voted to retain their offices for the coming year. Teacher Vivian Mitchell gave a devotional. Others present were Barb Shanks, Eleanor Beck and Fern Affolter.

The Singing Foster Family will be ministering in song at the Calvary Pentecostal Assembly, 4650 Maryville Road, from Nov. 14 through Nov. 18. Services will start nightly at 7:30. Call 931-4106 or 931-4042.

The First Baptist Church of Granite City at 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, is announcing the formation of a Ladies' Prayer Group under the direction of Jill Cowin. The group meets at 9 a.m. each Monday in the church to pray for church and personal needs.

Sharon Losito was feted at a recent baby shower, hosted by Elaine Grayson, Rhonda McDowell and Ellen Douglas. The party was held at Granite City First Baptist Church. Refreshments were served to Vivian Mitchell, Vicki Royce, Lena Scarborough, Jill Cowin, Karen Howard, Denise Wright, Elinor Stagner, Freda Jbrdan, Velma Rice, Louise Baker, Alice Oxford, Charlie Hoffmann, Margaret Hester, Gerri Holschouer, Lisa Christ, Leanda Johnson, Anna Mae Bittick, Wilma Grammel, Norma Haley, Bev. Haley, Becky Grayson, Coleen Wright and Susan Montgomery.

The Madison County Baptist Association will hold the 1990 "M" Night Discipleship Training Rally on Monday, Nov. 12, in the Second Baptist Church, starting at 7 p.m. Speaker at the rally will be Dr. Rick Heinimus.

The youth of the First Baptist Church of Granite City recently were treated to a "Bible Times" costume party at the church. Each child participating was dressed as a person, place or thing as described in the Bible. The children brought canned food to be used for holiday food baskets and each youngster was presented a treat bag upon leaving. Refreshments were also served to: Chris and Anne Losito, Mike and Chris Heintz, Aaron and Amanda Howard, Christi and Jeff Parker, Caitlin and Sarah Cowin, Deana and Laura Raymer, Mia Pagtongun, Justin, Matthew and Travis Morten, Chris Norton, Brandi and Michael Dixon and Timothy and Michael Dillard. Adults attending were Mike and Karen Losito, Mike and Karen Howard, Susan Montgomery, Jill and Tim Cowin, Thelma Dillard, Denise Wright, Clinton and Nittie Howard and coordinators, Pat and Paula Parker.

Symbol of the American Pioneering Spirit

Girl wins essay contest

Julie Hildebrand, a fifth grader at Frohardt School in Granite City, won first prize for her age group in the "The 25th Anniversary of the Gateway Arch Essay Contest."

"The theme of the contest was 'The Gateway Arch—Symbol of the American Pioneering Spirit.' The Jefferson National Expansion Historical Association sponsored the contest in part with the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis."

Hildebrand's winning essay is on display in the Arch Visitor Center.

Hildebrand's teacher, Marilyn L. Rongey, received a 1991 Golden Eagle Pass for all of America's national parks that have a fee.

Publications from the inventory of the Jefferson National Expansion Historical Association were presented to the Frohardt School library.

Gateway Arch — Symbol of the American Pioneering Spirit

By Julie Hildebrand

The Gateway Arch is a symbol of the American pioneering spirit. This monument was built to symbolize the Gateway to the West.

It was also built to honor and remember the Louisiana Purchase and is a memorial to the story of the American pioneers, explorers, trappers, traders, gold seekers, missionaries, and soldiers who opened up the wilderness west of the Mississippi River.

In 1764, Pierre Laclede established a settlement at the site of what is now St. Louis; there he opened a trading post.

The Lewis and Clark expedition was the first exploration by the United States government of the country's large northwestern wilderness. The expedition, led by Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, began in 1804 and lasted more than two years.

Lewis and Clark started up the Missouri River from St. Louis and traveled almost 7,700 miles to the Pacific Coast. They returned with maps of the frontier and information about the region's natural resources and the Indian tribes who lived there.

The success of the expedition enabled the United States to claim the Oregon region. This claim, in turn, settled the West during the 1800s.

The Gateway Arch of St. Louis is something more than stainless steel and concrete; it is a monument to the industry and courage of those who opened up a wilderness and have developed it into a mighty empire.

The Arch symbolizes not only the achievements of the past, but it stands as a symbol of promise for years to come.

This arch stands also as the gateway for future generations who will explore the unknown and go bravely on to newer and better things.

Glik honors service of employees

The Glik Company held its annual holiday party on Sunday, Nov. 4, at St. Gregory's Hall in Granite City. A buffet dinner was served to 200 by Jerry's Catering.

Bob, Jeff, and Jim Glik welcomed everyone and presented service awards for the year. Receiving awards were:

Five years: Jean Jones, Jama Holloway and Linda Moulton, all of Granite City; and Diane Mills of Highland.

Ten years: Mary Ann Pare, Granite City; Elsa Eltrich, Belleville; Kathy Leach, Edwardsville; and Jeff Glik of Granite City.

The hall was decorated with red, white and green balloons, miniature Christmas trees and The Simpsons characters.

The Horizon Band provided music for the evening.

Glik's now has 31 stores in Illinois and Missouri.

Brownie Troop 538 and Junior Girl Scout Troop 664 of Madison attended the holiday party on the Goshen Trail in Godfrey on Oct. 7.

The scouts watched demonstrations of traditional arts and crafts from the 1800s. Demonstrations included blacksmithing, bobbin lace, wooden toys and toy houses, weaving, spinning, soap making and making paper.

They also were shown how to make a cornucopia over an open fire and then were able to taste the product when done.

Members of the local troops also participated in the hands-on craft area, where the scouts discovered how things were made in the past. They learned the activities themselves.

When finished the girls were able to take their crafts home with them. The scouts enjoyed making an Indian spin toy, weaving on a loom, make a piece of pottery in punch art, making a quilt feather pen and writing with it and dipping candles.

Entertainment was provided by the Voyager Ancient Fife and Drums Corps; Indian Dancers from Explorer Post 39; the Great River Fife and Drum; and other music from the era of the 1800s.

Troop members enjoyed visiting booths displaying quilting, wood carving, vine wreaths and baskets, plus a visit to an authentic Indian village.

Scouts and Brownies attending were: Chastity Davies, Marsha and Amber Sipes, Amanda Holly, Marla Walker, Miss Derossett, Sharon Boyer, and Tammy, Carrie and Anna Potts.

Eagle-Stone Worship Center, 1348 Iowa St., Madison, will hold its monthly fish fry on Friday, Nov. 9, from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Carryouts and deliveries are available. For more information call 452-0080.

Along with the fish fry, the center's Ladies Outreach program will host a craft and rummage sale, beginning at 7.

Granite City once had a 'newspaper row' of 3 papers on D Street

First of two columns

Three newspapers operated simultaneously in the 1800 block of Delmar Avenue (then D Street) in the "roaring 20s."

That was one of the things I reported while giving a talk Monday evening to the Old Six Mile Historical Society, whose November meeting was held at Central Christian Church.

The three were the Granite City Press-Record, the Granite City Post and the Granite City Herald.

(National Herald), a daily national Bulgarian-language publication.

THIS NEWSPAPER traces its history (and its film file) to the spring of 1902. The weekly Press had just ceased publishing.

When Charles W. Judd, a St. Louis printer, moved to town to start a job printing and editing, and launched the weekly Granite City Press.

Its early issues included dramatic coverage of the Great

Flood that devastated much of the local community.

JOHN JUDD'S SON, born later, was Francis "Chubby" Judd, an active Granite City Realtor for many years before his death.

At the turn of the century, John Judd was in business as Judd & Gonterman at a 19th and State streets building now occupied by J.D. Hudson Jewelry.

Judd ran a drug store and Gonterman a jewelry store.

Ben Ford, an experienced newspaperman, began the Granite City Herald weekly and job shop in 1904. Competition between the two papers continued after Charles Judd moved to Detroit in 1906; John Judd operated both the Press and the drug store, hiring a New York printer, John W. "Jack" Cassidy, to help him.

In 1908, the competition ended in a merger. Ford sold out, and the new Press & Herald moved into the Herald building at 1830-32 Delmar Ave., switching from a Wednesday paper to Tuesdays and Thursdays.

About the same time, W.J. Lynch and Elmer McNary founded the Granite City Record and published a daily newspaper for a brief period. The daily disappeared but there was a lively rivalry between the weekly and twice-weekly.

Then, in 1912, financial necessity led to another merger, creating the Press-Record. Lynch became president, Cassidy editor-manager, and the paper changed from Tuesday-Thursday to Tuesday-Friday.

The Lynch-McNary partnership was changed in 1917 to a corporation with four stockholders: Lynch, McNary, Judd and Charles A. Uzzell, druggist and former mayor. (He was the first of two ex-mayors to join the Press-Record, the other was Art Jennings, who retired from the news staff in late 1945.)

UZZELL RAN A STORE, later to be known as Gantcheff's, that was torn down early this week after being damaged by fire earlier this year. Its address was 1901 Delmar Ave.

McNary bought out the other owners in 1919, pronouncing Cassidy to start a new paper and McNary to hire Lewis L. Lindley as Press-Record editor-manager.

In a building across the street, at 1835 D St., Cassidy established the Post, a Monday-Thursday paper. In 1922, the Post built and moved into a new structure at 1829 D.

Meanwhile, in 1920, McNary sold the P-R to Lindley and Lindley's brother-in-law, Granite City attorney Harry Faulkner.

Bill Winter

mid-century.

Although not located on D Street as were the Press-Record, Post and Naroden Glas, the Madison Republic also was being published in the 1920s, 1930s and 1940s.

The Republic later was acquired by the Press-Record from Mrs. Irene Hill and her son, Dale Hill. Mrs. Hill retired and Dale became a P-R typesetter as well as serving as probate clerk of Madison County.

"OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS on your door every day down on Newspaper Row," the local newspapers emphasized to merchants in the 1920s. "Advertise and build up your business," the retailers were urged.

John L. Tempo was the 1920s foreman of the Post composing room, later holding a similar position at the Press-Record, including part of my 45-year association with the P-R. John died not long ago at about 90 years of age.

Others on the Post staff besides Cassidy included C.N.

Alleger, Josephine E. Tucker, Harry W. Brante, Mrs. Stella Halbert and W.H. Chambers.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS if you define the 1920s as good old days) at the Press-Record, the staff in addition to President Faulkner and Editor-Manager Lindley, consisted of Edwin Backs, Leo Marx, Misses Lida and Maude Cotter, Misses Dorothy and Ethel Kuebler, Mrs. Blanche Walker, Miss Willie Fay, Mrs. Eva Dron, Miss Alice Durer, Louis "Bob" Hartung and Adeline Jefferies.

How good were the old days? Retired P-R editor Corky Townsend once described it this way:

"Personal journalism was in its heyday. The news-fighters waged not only in their newspapers by the editors and owners, but in the streets if the opponents chanced to meet after a particularly vitriolic article."

Personal journalism engaged in bitter attacks on each other and seldom failed to take opposite sides, regardless of the issue."

Genealogy buffs meet today

The Madison County Genealogical Society will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at Immanuel United Methodist Church, 800 N. Main St., Edwardsville.

The program will be an informal discussion by society members, concerning research problems, genealogical interests and specialized areas of research. Guests are welcome.

Crafts on Sunday at Benld Civic Center

The Benld Parent-Teacher Organization will hold its annual craft show at the Benld Civic Center on Sunday, Nov. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There will be 44 tables of handcrafts, sponsors said. Admission is free.

Featured will be ceramics, wood crafts, wood dolls, twisted rope dolls, bears, woven rugs, crocheted and needlepoint items, bird houses and lawn ornaments, crystal and stone, cross stitch items, colored drawings of ships, Watkins products, baked goods, dog hamps and dulcimers, appliqued sweat shirts and many Christmas items.

Food will be served all day, including Italian beef, barbecued hot dogs, chips, desserts and drinks.

New teaching tools outlined for Rotary

Granite City School Superintendent Gib Walmsley surprised 75 attendees at the Rotary Prayer Breakfast at Charlie's Restaurant by presenting Myrna Davis, director of Reading Improvement Grant and Gifted Students, and Ron Moore, the district's computer educational expert.

The group was expecting to hear Walmsley update the high school renovation, but he explained that earthquake investigations of the structure were delaying the project and his report also would be delayed until a later time.

Organizations

Davis and Moore proved to be able substitutes for Walmsley at the Oct. 17 breakfast.

Computer instruction began in the Granite City schools in 1978 and today there are more than 1,200 computer units throughout the school district, Davis explained.

No tax money went into the computer purchases, which were made with grant funds and with more than $50,000 worth of computers purchased through the Schnucks Market receipts collection program, she said.

Moore gave a demonstration of interactive video. The system will be used in conjunction with individual teaching skills to help keep the local school district "on the cutting edge of education," Moore said.

The October prayer breakfast was sponsored by the Tri-City Regional Port District.

TOPS will meet next Monday

IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS...

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

The Christmas Season is rapidly approaching, and our City is without traditional Christmas decorations that many other communities enjoy. We lack of community spirit or interest in the traditional observance of the Holiday Season. It appears that the absence of a central organizer to bring together the parties that could provide the resources to purchase and manage such a project may have been the problem rather than the lack of community spirit or interest.

Your local Chamber of Commerce and City Government are offering to be the organizer and catalyst for a fund drive to purchase decorations for the Central Downtown business district between 18th Street and 23rd Street from Madison Ave. to Cleveland Ave.

We are proposing to purchase street banners depicting the Christmas Season to be mounted on street light poles by means of a pair of steel rain departments of the city. The brackets once attached to the street light poles would remain in place and might be useful for other seasonal celebrations if desired. The approximate cost for banner and brackets is $100 per described.

Corporations, clubs, organizations and individual citizens of Granite City will be asked to contribute to this effort as well as businesses and professions there must be strong participation from the business and professional community. Please indicate your level of support by purchasing one or more set(s) of banner(s) and mounting brackets.

Check the appropriate number and drop in the return mail so we may be able to move forward with this project in time for this Christmas Season.

Sincerely,
R.C. Bush

•Shimkus

The voters took a shot at me and slapped me, and I don't know if that will happen again," Henkhaus said from his office. But I don't think I'm dead politically. I still have a lot to offer. I'm not ashamed of anything I did here."

Although Henkhaus congratulated Shimkus for the win, he said he hoped the election would have centered more on issues rather than his family.

Henkhaus became embroiled in controversy when his sons, Michael and Matthew, were placed on probation by a St. Clair County judge. June on charges related to the stabbing of 22-year-old Deron McKey during a May 1989 fight.

McKey's family picked Henkhaus' office in Edwardsville, claiming Henkhaus' position helped his sons avoid jail terms.

Shortly after that, Henkhaus was criticized for hiring his son Michael in the treasurer's office. The junior Henkhaus left the job and has been working as a buyer for a metals firm.

Despite the election loss, Henkhaus said he doesn't regret defending his sons.

"If the election was based on my decision to stand up for my children, then it's too bad," Henkhaus said. "There is no office in the world that's worth giving up my children for. I didn't do anything that any other father wouldn't have done."

Shimkus, a former Metro East Lutheran High School teacher in Edwardsville who quit the job to run for treasurer full time, capitalized on the scandal to underscore his platform promises on integrity and trust. However, Shimkus on Wednesday said he concentrated on "real issues" and his campaign was straightforward.

"All I did was to bring out office matters, things that were the truth," Shimkus said. "He added that he challenged Henkhaus to several debates, but Henkhaus refused to accept and failed to appear at a debate sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

"He didn't want to meet with me one-on-one to debate the issues," Shimkus said. "If he had real issues, then he could have done it then."

Although Henkhaus was expected to gain strong Democratic support from Granite City and the Wood River-Alton areas, early returns showed Shimkus pulling away. The victory makes Shimkus the first Republican official elected countywide since 1980, when Doran Weber won as state's attorney.

"(Shimkus) ran a negative campaign from the word go and it was successful for him," Henkhaus said. "There were no runnings of me in trouble anywhere. People said, 'Mick's going to win, but not like he normally does.' It didn't happen."

Henkhaus said he would have a tough time leaving an office he had held for more than a decade, "especially all the people here."

"I've been not only their boss but their friend," Henkhaus said. "We've grown together the last 12 years."

Henkhaus said Wednesday he would take a few days off to "put things into perspective," including a deer-hunting trip next week, and would make a decision about his future later.

"Last night (Tuesday) I had people telling me to give them a call about a job," Henkhaus said. "I'm not sure what to do yet, but I will decide soon."

Plans for Shimkus, he plans to "hit the ground running." A campaign issue, creation of a county investment policy, will be his first order of business.

"I want a written policy by the Finance Committee and approved by the County Board," Shimkus said. "I want clear-cut guidelines about what we can do with the money."

In a public concession speech at a Democratic gathering Tuesday night in Wood River, Henkhaus said, "I'm not ashamed of what happened tonight. I've been a part of the team the last 12 years. I've done a good job, and I stood behind my children, and I would do it again. This office didn't mean that much to me."

ature at the polling place. "I can see where they were opposed," Chapman said. "The farmers don't like the idea of a higher tax assessment (if the airport made the surrounding land more valuable) and the people don't like the idea of planes flying around their neighborhood."

Chapman said it is hard to make a prediction on the future of the 30-year-old airport. Bill Nichols held the rights and operated it as a restricted landing area until his death in August 1989. The 149-acre location was placed on the market by his estate.

The issue's future is uncertain. "The time and money I gave to it was all a labor of love," Chapman said. "That's true of others who gave even more time and money than I did."

"It would appear that to win in politics today it requires the backing of a political organization and having the money to spend for advertising."

Chapman also said it is possible one of the municipalities might try to operate the airport on its own.

"But (the airport authority) was the perfect vehicle," he said. "It is really a loss to the community. People didn't understand it would be a lot of money coming in — several million dollars annually — and even more money in related construction and business."

In addition to the money already raised, the Granite City Moose Lodge has volunteered to buy five of the $100 banners for the 19th Street overpass next to its building, Bush said.

Bush stressed that the fundraising was not done despite the successes realized this week.

•Banners

Financing funds to match the total that had been raised to that point by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the project.

With the total $25,000, banners will be used to decorate the downtown area from Madison Avenue to Cleveland Boulevard to 23rd Street to 18th Street, and Namekoo Road from Pontoon to St. Clair Avenue, according to R.C. Bush, executive director of the chamber.

The decorated area would be extended as more funds are raised, including Pontoon Road west to Illinois Route 3.

In approving its contribution, the city council stipulated the city's share of the banners would only go within the downtown TIF district and those banners must be distinctive in some way, either color or wording.

Bush said the chamber was in a hurry to get approval on the funds because the order had to go out this week in order to take care of this holiday season.

"We're still dealing with three firms to buy the banners, and we haven't made a firm commitment yet."

The Democratic candidates carried all other precincts here in the Senate race, Democrat Paul Simon overwhelmingly carried the Quad Cities. In Venice Township, Simon's total in each of six different precincts was Aquacenter officials estimate the cost of engineering and architectural work yet to be done on the trailer at $75,000.

After it is completed, Mid-America Aquacenter officials hope to recruit a corporate sponsor to underwrite maintenance and exhibition costs, according to Robert Kessler, an Aquacenter supporter and owner of The Dive Shop in St. Louis.

Kessler said, "We live in a landlocked area. Our experience and perceptions of marine life are skewed. Most people in this area only know as much (about marine life) as they see on the Discovery Channel on television.

"We hope to educate children and adults about marine life. We feel that once persons experience the mobile aquarium or the Aquacenter itself, they will begin to realize exactly how much they are missing."

The Aquacenter will be built near Interstate 255 between I-270 and I-55/70, if state funding is made available. Sonnenschein said the General Assembly is considering the measure in its next session, as part of the funding of the McCormick Place project in Chicago. If all goes according to hopes, ground could be broken this spring and work done in two years, he said.

who was upset by his Republican challenger, John Shimkus, carried all but 12 of the 66 precincts in the local area. Cities, Shimkus won in Granite City, Precincts 20, 21, 22, 24, 31, 32, 34 and 35; in Namekoo Precincts 6, 7 and 11; and in Chouteau Precinct 3.

The Democratic candidates carried all other precincts here in the Senate race, Democrat Paul Simon overwhelmingly carried the Quad Cities. In Venice Township, Simon's total in each of six different precincts was greater than challenger Lynn Martin's total vote in all 11 Venice precincts.

Need to Simon, the two biggest vote-getters in opposed races were U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello and State Treasurer-elect Pat Quinn. Both carried the Quad City area by more than a 2-to-1 margin.

Republican George Ryan, who defeated Jerry Costello for secretary of state, didn't win based on his totals in this community. His best showing was in Granite City Precinct 31, where he garnered 33 percent of the votes.

Rotarians offering citrus in annual fund-raiser

"The freshest, most delectable holiday oranges and grapefruit are now being sold by members of the Granite City, according to Loren Davis, Rotary Citrus Sale chairman.

"Our teams are in place and we anticipate this being our most successful sale ever," Davis said.

"The holiday citrus sale is Rotary's major fund-raising event and all proceeds go toward our civic projects," he said.

The 40-pound boxes of citrus, which are $20 each and can be purchased from any Granite City Rotarian, will be delivered the second week in December.

"This year we divided our membership into 10 teams, gave them professional football team names and pitted them against each other with the winning team being treated to a steak dinner," Davis said.

"The teams and team captains are: Eagles, Pat Barker; Giants, George Grover; Steelers, Paul Doroghazi; Bears, Earl Dotzauer; Lions, Jim Beardi; Cowboys, Gail Valle; Redskins, Jack Dempsey; Dolphins, Dave Schermer; Raiders, Don Adams; and Packers, Rich Sues.

"This is a perfect way to obtain your holiday citrus, while helping our worthwhile civic endeavors," Davis said.

Those not contacted in the future by a Rotarian can call any one of the above captains for orders, Davis said.

Christian Women's luncheon Tuesday

The Christian Women's Club serving Madison County will feature "Hearts and Home" at its luncheon on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 12:15 p.m.

The two-hour luncheon program will feature Rosemary Siegfried with tips on quilting and the "Magic Pillow." Special music will be provided by Rhonda Gibson.

Joan Tiernon from Lincolnshire, Ill., will be the speaker. Her topic will be "Hate of Life."

The Christian Women's Club is non-denominational and part of an international organization of more than 2,200 chapters across the North American continent. There are no dues or formal membership and all women are invited to attend.

Cost of the luncheon is $7, payable at the door.

A free nursery for the preschoolers will be provided. Reservations for the luncheon and nursery are required and should be made by noon on Friday, Nov. 9.

To make a reservation or for information about the club, call Emily at 345-8374, Beverly, 667-2259, or Winona at 345-6535.

DUV Tent 92 honors two 50-year member

Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Aunt Becky Young Tent 92, met at Anchor-nagar Homes on Oct. 25 to honor two 50-year members and for a business meeting.

A desert luncheon was served by the hostess, Florence Hildebrand, Tent 92 president. The tables were decorated in keeping with the Halloween season. Joyce Moran and Arline Fox were honored upon becoming 50-year members of Aunt Becky Young Tent 92. Each was presented with a potted plant of gold-colored chrysanthemum by Hildebrand.

The business segment was conducted by the president and the opening prayer was offered by Moran. All repeated the Pledge of Allegiance in unison.

Roll call and reading of the records were by Secretary Irma Taylor. The treasurer's report was presented by Louise Thompson.

Tom Wallace
... guest speaker

Christian College speaker at church

Pontoon Beach Church of Christ, 4039 Pontoon Road, Pontoon Beach, is hosting "Mission Month," featuring guest speakers each Sunday during November.

"That All Men Praise Him" is the theme for the month.

The guest speaker on Sunday, Nov. 11, will be Tom Wallace from St. Louis Christian College.

Wallace works in the area of development, student recruiting and public relations for the college. He has presented seminars addressing the topics of Christian time management and leadership in the church.

SOLID GOSPEL, a singing group, will appear at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 11, at Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St. From left: Gary O'Neal, Barbara Huffman, Rick Brown and Brad Chapman.

Last year, Wallace traveled to Scotland to help with an Evangelistic Crusade there. St. Louis Christian College is one of the missions supported by Pontoon Beach Church of Christ. The Sunday morning worship services start at 9:30 and the evening service begins at 6. Dale Peery serves as senior minister at Pontoon Beach Church of Christ and Peter Shenan is the minister to youth.

Musicians at Grace Baptist

"Solid Gospel," a new southern gospel singing group from Missouri, will appear in concert at Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., on Sunday, Nov. 11, at 10:30 a.m. and again at the evening service at 7. The concert is being given as part of Grace Baptist Church's 33rd anniversary celebration.

The talented group of musicians consists of four young singers who are no strangers to gospel music as they have been exposed and involved in it most of their lives.

"Solid Gospel" is entertaining and inspirational with their music touching the hearts and lives of the listener. Dr. Bob Jones, church pastor, said, "Gary O'Neal, leader of the group, said the members' goal is 'to always keep Christ first in their lives.'"

Also part of the festivities will be a children's carnival given for all youngsters in the community who attend Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

"The carnival is always the highlight of the year for our children," said the pastor. Thousands of toys, stuffed animals, trinkets, jewelry and other items have been donated by the church for the event.

The carnival is free. Transportation to the church can be arranged by calling 877-6672 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Group to meet at St. Boniface School

Southern Illinois Divorced/Separated Catholics will meet on Friday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Boniface School, 128 North Buchanan, Edwardsville.

Guest Sister Carolyn Conner will address the topic, "Letting Go, Letting God."

Newcomers are welcome. For more information call 465-1463.

Teen-agers of the Month honored by Elks

The Teen-ager of the Month program is sponsored by the Elks Lodge in an effort to bring recognition to outstanding teens in the area.

Teen-agers of the Month are selected by a panel of students and teachers in the high school. Multiple achievement, citizenship, scholarship and leadership are the basis for selection.

Students are nominated monthly by classmates and teachers in their schools and then they are screened by a school student-teacher committee for the selection of Teen-ager of the Month.

Nominations are accepted after the first Monday of each month.

The first Teen-ager of the Month awards presentation for the 1990-91 school year honored the boy and girl nominees selected for the months of September and October. All are seniors at Granite City High School.

The awards were presented by Chairman Steve Isenburgh at the Elks regular meeting in October. Kelly A. Green and Robert L. Terrell have been named Teen-ager of the Month for September.

Green, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William (Linda) Green, Granite City. She has been active as captain of the Flag Corps and as a member of the National Honor Society, All American Flag Corps, Empathy and the Photography and Foreign Policy club.

Green works in the school office and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. Her hobbies are reading and swimming.

Terrell, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill (JoAnn) Terrell of Granite City. He has been active in the Student Council, United Way, National Honor Society, Foreign Policy Club, Homecoming Court and the Suburban Baptist Church.

Terrell was named to Who's Who Among High School Students and received the Presidential Academic and Physical Fitness Award. Hobbies include basketball, golf and skiing.

Leah R. Schuman and Nathan McClain have been named Teen-ager of the Month for October.

Hobbies are skating and boating. McClain, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David (Lynn) McClain of Granite City. He has been active with the Student Council and in tennis and golf programs. He is a member of the National Honor Society and Homecoming Court and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

McClain has received several art scholarships and awards. Hobbies include painting and sculpture.

Why Bifocals?

We recommend Varilux eyeglass lenses for people who need to see from near to far without wearing bifocals.

Varilux has a sophisticated, patented design that allows focusing clearly at any distance. It does away with the "window" seen in bifocals and the awkward bifocal line. We have the experience and equipment to fit this advanced lens, and we invite you to come and see the difference.

Congratulations to the champs

Gene Baker has often said that soccer is a subjective game. That is, it is basically means is that unless you're a big goal scorer, it's hard to tell people how good a player you are. There aren't a bushel of statistical categories like there are in, say, baseball. There are many players who have to be seen day in and day out to be appreciated.

And so, as the curtain comes down on their championship season, it's time to put in a good word for the many Warriors who contributed to the win without a lot of fanfare.

Everyone knows about the scoring exploits of Skip Birdsong, Jay Robertson and Brian Buske, while Pat Rich was an all-state defender and Tim Henson emerged as a star goaltender.

But is there a better dribbler than Jeff Stephens? It seems like he has the ball most of the time, often stealing it away from an opponent and dribbling through several frustrated opponents on the counterattack.

Matt Loftus and Dan Terrell were the throw-in specialists. They both set up numerous goals throughout the year with powerful throws from the sidelines. Rich got tremendous defensive help from steady players like Jason Maxfield, Ryan Reeges and Jim McKechao. Larry Strader, Brent Dippel, Larry Wright and Eric Davis were among those who provided solid play at the back.

As Birdsong said, it was a "team season." There was nobody like a John Van Buskirk, Dave Fernandez or Mark Goldschmidt. But the end result was the same. So congratulations go out to Baker and assistant coaches Mel Bunting and Dave Ames for another job well done.

But the real congratulations go to the young men who made it happen: The 1990 Warrior soccer team, Illinois state champions:

This was a senior-laden team but led by Henson, Maxfield and Dippel, the Warriors have a good start on 1991. Henson will be a senior while Maxfield and Dippel will only be juniors. Others returning from the above group will be Davis, Kessler,

Modifications also coming for overtime, PKs

Other changes in boys and girls soccer were announced by the Illinois High School Association last week, and they will go into effect this spring when the regionals begin for the girls state soccer tournament.

The changes:

life changes.

• In brackets in state tournament play, teams will play two 10-minute sudden-death overtime periods. Previously, two five-minute OTs preceded two five-minute sudden-death overtimes.

• In the quarterfinals, however, up to four 10-minute sudden-death OTs will be played before penalty kicks.

• Goalkeepers will be allowed to move at the sound of the whistle on penalty kicks. Previously, the goalkeeper could not move until the ball was struck by the opponent taking the penalty kick.

IHSA associate executive secretary Dave Frey said the rule on the goaltenders and the penalty kicks still must be approved by the National National of State High School Associations, and there is the chance the IHSA may scrap this particular change if feedback is negative.

"We'd like to use it permanently," he said. "The rule is one of the toughest calls to make, and this puts the situation in control of the players rather than the referee."

"Also, in PKs, the advantage is supposed to be with the shooter. If you're trying to break a tie, there shouldn't be an advantage. We hope it creates equality between the kicker and the keeper.

A VIEW FROM THE BENCH: Granite City players root the

"It may turn out the kicker can make the keeper commit, but all keepers move at the whistle...and they want to."

is widely misunderstood.

"This experiment is a raw idea in stage one," Frey said. "We'll find out the feedback from officials, coaches, players and fans. We'll see what they're telling us, and who knows? Maybe it will be negative."

Frey tends to think the response will be positive. He said the proposal was the result of a meeting of the boys soccer advisory committee, which is comprised of coaches throughout the state.

"We mentioned it at a meeting last weekend (at the state soccer tournament), and the response was just OK," Frey said. "But we really haven't discussed it much with anyone at this point."

Frey stressed that the experiment, if successful, will not result in an official rules change for the 1991 state tournament and probably not for some time thereafter. Frey said the rule change would have to be approved by the national federation, which would likely want to test the concept in other states.

"Probably the best analogy I can make is for three of four years we tried the three-point shot in basketball at some Christmas tournaments, and we've also tried the shot clock," Frey said. "The reaction to the shot clock has been negative, but (reaction to the three-point shot was positive and now it's a rule."

Rules

similar to the new playoff system that goes into effect this season for Class AA boys and girls basketball.

On the subject of rules changes, there will be a new free throw rule to be experimented with in IHSA basketball this year. Now, beginning with the eighth team foul of each half, there will be two free throws for each common foul (except player control fouls).

Previously, two free throws were awarded only on shooting fouls except when fouls were deemed intentional. But referees very seldom were calling intentional fouls. The change is being made in an attempt to prevent a team from gaining an advantage in the last minutes of each half when fouls are committed on purpose.

The "one-plus-plus" rule will still be in effect for the fifth through seventh team fouls of each half. The experiment, which the IHSA received permission from the National Federation to run, is similar to a rule change made this year in the NCAA.

Briefly

Promotions at Glik Stores

Glik Stores is announcing the promotion of Aloysius Ratkiewicz to coordinator of marketing and receiving. Also promoted was Deena Scarborough, who is now the manager of marketing and receiving. Both are Granite City residents.

Glik Stores, a Granite City-based firm, operates 31 apparel stores in Missouri and Illinois.

Old Vienna produces new line

Old Vienna Potato Chip Company, which had its beginning in St. Louis in 1945, has introduced a new line of potato chips — with new ingredients and new flavors — and all enclosed in a completely new packaging look.

All of this is being backed by Old Vienna's parent company, Curtice-Burns Foods, who acquired the No. 1 regional snack food company in October 1988.

The idea behind Old Vienna's production and marketing concept is based on consumer research which revealed that Midwesterners believe the best tasting and most flavorful ingredients come from the Midwest. America's Heartland. Charles J. Conrad, Executive Vice President/Chief Operating Officer at Old Vienna says, "It is our belief that the local Midwestern ingredients used in producing the our line of potato chips are of higher quality. We at Old Vienna are convinced that products from the Midwest simply make a better tasting potato chip."

Glik's opens third '$10' store

Glik Stores, which operates 30 apparel stores in Missouri and Illinois, has opened the third of its new concept stores, "Ten Dollars and Less," in Gannon Plaza in Festus, Mo.

This is the second Ten Dollars and Less store opened this year and plans are under way for possibly opening another such store this year and four to six more in 1991.

The stores carry men's and women's branded fashion sportswear that is priced at $10 and less. The savings off regular retail prices range from 20 to 60 percent.

HALLOWEEN HOSPITALITY: Coldwell Banker Star Realty sales agents distributed pumpkins to many residential homes during the Halloween season, showing their appreciation to their past and present customers. States offer information on stockbrokers

To check up on a stockbroker's credentials with state regulators, Missourians can just pick up the phone while Illinois residents must write a letter. But Marylanders, Illinois' securities director, says she is working for legislation that would permit telephone calls.

For information about a broker or investment firm, or to make complaints, here are the regulators to contact:

In Missouri, call the securities division in the Secretary of State's office, 1-751-2302 or 1-751-4704.

In Illinois, write to Securities Department, Secretary of State, 900 S. Spring St., Springfield, Ill. 62704.

Good news, bad news on benefits

CHICAGO — While employers are less likely to pick up 100 percent of the premium for health care costs, they are investing in such programs as drug- and alcohol-abuse treatment, workplace smoking policies, and emergency-care training.

According to a new benefits survey released by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, 58 percent of salaried nonexempt employees (office and other clerical classifications) of small firms had 100 percent of their health and hospitalization insurance premium paid by their employers, a decline of 13 percentage points since 1988.

The IMA's 1990 Benefits Report showed that small businesses offering major medical insurance increased by almost 3 percent during the last two years, from 93.5 percent in 1988 to 96.3 percent in 1990.

Employers also are becoming more attuned to employee needs and problems by providing additional programs or policies in the conventional health-care package.

In 1990, for example, roughly 30 percent of large employers had a substance-abuse testing policy for current employees. Large employers also adopted drug testing for job applicants (55.3 percent) compared to 28.5 percent for small firms.

As for small employers (99 employees or less), 31 percent of companies had adopted some form of "no smoking" policy.

MOST COMMON COMPANY BENEFITS

	Large Employers
	Hourly Employees	Non-exempt Employees	Exempt Employees

1 Week	0.0%	0.4%	0.0%
2 Weeks	1.9%	0%	0.7%
3 Weeks	13.6%	15.1%	14.9%
4 Weeks	39.5%	38.6%	38.9%
5 Weeks	34.6%	35.4%	36.0%
6 Weeks	9.1%	8.8%	7.9%
Over 6 Weeks	1.3%	1.8%	1.7%

Preferred Provider Org. (PPO)	15.2%	16.9%	16.7%
Self-insured Coverage Plan	25.3%	24.0%	24.9%

Approximately 16 percent had a complete ban on smoking in the workplace.

On-site emergency care, such as first aid instruction and CPR (cardio pulmonary resuscitation), was one of the three most popular programs made available by employers in an organized wellness program or an employee assistance program.

"The report indicates that companies are not likely to offer benefit packages that include features such as AIDS awareness programs or even cancer detection," said Jerome G. Chaplin, IMA director of industrial relations. "It is understandable the employers don't want to increase benefit costs, but failure to implement long-term preventive programs may prove far more costly to employers."

Timberlake Manor in good location

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

WHAT: Timberlake Manor
DEVELOPER: P&E Development Co.
LOT PRICES: $12,500 to $14,500

LOCATION: Illinois 111 south of I-270
Pontoon Beach

Home buyers tell builder Gary Stark that Timberlake Manor's Pontoon Beach location, about one mile south of I-270, is a major reason they have purchased at the 117-lot subdivision.

"The location is great," says Stark, president of both P&E Development, developer of the tract, and home builder Stark Contracting. A friend of Stark who moved to Timberlake Manor three years ago "just hops on the highway" and reaches downtown St. Louis more quickly than it took him to drive there through Granite City during rush hour, he says.

"You're about a mile-and-a-half from I-270 (via Route 111), about three miles from I-255," he says.

Stark says he is getting a lot of looks from St. Louis buyers. In fact, he recently sold two houses to St. Louisans who work downtown and were sold on the commute from Illinois, which means the sun is at their backs during the morning and evening rush hours.

Another attraction that makes Timberlake Manor the hottest subdivision in Pontoon Beach and such nearby communities as Edwardsville is price, Stark says. There are homes in the $85,000-plus range, though most are between $90,000 and $98,000, he says. The last two sales barely topped $100,000.

Similar houses would cost $10,000 to $15,000 more in Edwardsville and in St. Louis County, Stark says.

Lots are priced from $12,500 to $14,500, yet-to-be-developed lake lots will be priced from $15,000 to $16,000.

Buyers can bring their own builder. Stark Contracting has built 15 houses in Timberlake Manor so far this year and has three more under construction.

Building restrictions call for ranch plans to have 1,250 square feet of living space, and two-tory plans to have 750 square feet on the first floor and a like amount (or more) on the second floor.

There must be at least 15 percent brick on the front elevation, but Stark routinely faces the front entirely with brick.

Directions from I-270: Exit south on Route 111, turn right on Timberlake Drive to Timberlake Manor. Stark can be called at 618-451-1897 or Crews Realty, the listing agent, at 618-877-4800.

NEW BRANCH IN GRANITE CITY: United Water Blasters has opened a new branch at 2800 East 23rd St. in Granite City. The company, which has its headquarters in Portage, Ind., is a corrective maintenance corporation. The firm offers all types of industrial and environmental services, including tank cleaning, degreasing, fireproofing and spill cleanup, said division manager Jerry Singleton, 451-8841.

Bush, executive vice-president of the chamber; Kevin Austin, owner of X-Tra Innings; Stephany Shafer, manager of X-Tra Innings; City Clerk Bob Stevens; Mary Jessee, a chamber ambassador; and Virginia Shelton, the building owner. The tavern offers snacks and sandwiches along with the beer and other drinks. Pool tables, poker machines and dart boards are available for patrons. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. daily.

GETTING READY FOR CUSTOMERS: John "Jerry" McDonald, left, president of Omni Bank in Pontoon Beach, and Ralph Elsworth, a member of the bank's board of directors, try out the facility's automatic teller using an Omni Bank card. The bank, located next to the McDonald's restaurant on Illinois 111 in Chouteau Trace I, is planning to open within the next four to eight weeks, according to Anne Foster of Foster and Fellows, a public relations firm.

Viewers' calls, letters helped save 'Nightline'

Contrary to the evidence in Washington, compromise is not always a loser for all.

The rescue of ABC-TV's "Nightline" from program limbo in St. Louis is a victory for just about all the parties involved. It also is strong evidence that the power of the viewer is not entirely lost on KTVI-TV (Channel 2).

A bit of background: Channel 2 announced months ago that on Dec. 31 it planned to move "Nightline" to midnight week-days from its current 11 p.m. spot so the station could air Paramount Pictures Corp.'s "Arsenio Hall Show" and "The Party Machine with Nia Peeples" beginning at 10:30 p.m.

But ABC refused to allow "Nightline" to be aired that late. The network prefers the program to be aired live in its 10:30 p.m. slot and definitely no later than 11:30 p.m. When Channel 2 said it was locked into an agreement with Paramount to air

"Nia Peeples" immediately after "Arsenio Hall" as part of the price for getting Hall away from KMOV-TV (Channel 4), it appeared "Nightline" might be lost to the St. Louis audience.

Faced with many adverse telephone calls, letters and petitions from disgruntled viewers, the station persevered in its negotiations with Paramount to get permission to run "Nia Peeples" at midnight, which will allow "Nightline" to air at 11:30 p.m. following "Arsenio Hall."

"It was a matter of convincing them (Paramount) of how much it meant to us and our viewers," said Channel 2 program director Susan Matthews. "The (viewer) calls and letters helped."

However, what can't be lost sight of is that running the program at 11:30 p.m. instead of earlier is a net loss for the audience that relies on "Nightline" for a perspective on vital issues. But it beats not running it at all. Channel 2's decision to run

Ian MacBryde

"Arsenio Hall" is economic. Based on ratings for five weeks beginning Sept. 24, "Arsenio Hall" gets many more viewers than Ted Koppel on "Nightline" — a 6.4 rating to 3.9 between 11 and 11:30 p.m. That translates to roughly 65,000 households for Hall, 40,000 for Koppel.

Channel 2 clearly hopes that running a popular program after its 10 p.m. news will draw viewers to that newscast, thereby driving up the news ratings and generating more revenue.

Economically, there was no decision involved, and that serves as a reminder: We get the television programming we want and deserve based on our viewing habits. That is a sobering thought.

"Cop Rock" If you are one of the many people who have not discovered "Cop Rock," which airs at 9 p.m. Wednesday on Channel 2, you probably would not have recognized this conversation. The two people at lunch sounded like this:

"I mean here they are doing 'Hill Street Blues' and suddenly they all start singing."

"Yeah. At first I thought it was really weird, but I kinda got interested. It helps you know what the characters are all about."

They liked "Cop Rock," the gritty show produced by Steven Bochco, which comes on like a Broadway musical. Every so often (usually right before a commercial) the characters stop the action, which consists of people abusing each other in the tried and true tradition of cop shows, and they start dancing. Sometimes they dance.

The program has wonderful bloodlines. Bochco produced "Hill Street" and "L.A. Law," and has proven his worth. But for most folks I've spoken with, "Cop Rock" just doesn't work. The change is too abrupt. As a cop show, it is great, but as a musical — well, viewers just can't suspend their disbelief that much.

The ratings indicate "Cop Rock" likely won't be around long. The program is running a poor third in its time slot against strong competition — "Hunters" on KSDK-TV (Channel 5) and the brand-new "WIOU" on KMOV-TV (Channel 4).

The other musical drama introduced this season is "Hill High," which airs at 6 p.m. Sunday on Channel 5. I've heard some people say that the transitions into the musical numbers come a little easier in that program, possibly because the action is set in a high school — is a little less combative. But it, too, is suffering in the ratings in this market trailing Channel 4's "50 Minutes" and Channel 2's "Life Goes On."

Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.

Festival of Trees auction set Nov. 18

A winter wonderland will be unveiled Nov. 18 at the Seventh Annual Festival of Trees Gala Preview Auction and Ball.

The festival preview and silent auction begins at 2 p.m. at the Kiel, 14th and Market streets, St. Louis. The ball follows at 5 p.m. at the Adam's Mark Hotel, Fourth and Chestnut streets. A one-of-a-kind auction by Robert Merry, Robert Merry Auction Co., of Christmas trees laden with fur, diamonds, toys, a puppy and other items will begin at 6 p.m.

The trees have been donated by Adams Mark, Albarre Jewelers; Anheuser-Busch; Arnold Dog Grooming by Virginia; Famous-Barr; Fortus, Anderson & Rivera; Hakimian Brothers Oriental Rugs; Laclede Gas Co.; St. Louis Cardinal Pinchitter; and the Spirit of St. Louis Smokers, among others.

Following the auction will be dancing and dancing to Bob Kuban's Brass.

Tickets are as follows (each table seats eight persons): Gold table, $1,000; Silver table, $500; Bright Star table, $250; and individuals, $75. Reservations may be made before Nov. 10 by calling 241-3378.

The Festival of Trees, Nov. 23 to Dec. 2 at The Kiel, will feature Christmas trees, wreaths and other holiday crafts for sale; family and children's activities; a boutique of handmade crafts; and entertainment. Proceeds benefit Judevine Center for Autism, a national and regional resource for individuals with autism and their families.

Bagpipe band seeks recruits

The John Ford Highlander Pipe Band of St. Louis is looking for men and women to join its Bagpipe Band. People interested in learning to play the bagpipes or drums are urged to call Bill Sandbach, (314) 638-3890. There is no charge for instruction.

The band, which plays Irish and Scottish bagpipe music, performs about 50 times a year. Past appearances have included the Orange Bowl Parade in Miami Florida, the Mardi Gras Parade in New Orleans and St. Patrick's Day parades.
